

This information looks like a lot of work, who exactly put it all together?

Listing names can be dangerous because someone could easily be left out and others prefer that their names not be listed. The project of contacting the candidates, gathering information, updating the website, and creating hard copies, is accomplished by a team of volunteers from a variety of political parties, religious views, education, and walks of life. The members of the team vary every election.